MCADOO GAINS STEADILY: COX RUNNING SECOND

STAMPEDE TO MCADOO DOES NOT DEVELOP

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—On the seventh ballot McAdoo received 351; Cox, 295 1/2; Palmer, 267 1/2. New York on this ballot gave Cox, 68 of her 90 votes. New Jersey gave Cox, 25 of her 28 votes.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The sixth ballot as officially announced follows: Total vote cast 1,090. McAdoo 357, Cox 181, Palmer 244; Cummings 21, Owen 31, Hitchcock 5, Meredith 25, Smith 95, Edwards 31, Davis 29, Glass 27, Marshall 29, Clark 8, Colby 2.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—McAdoo and Cox made all the gains up to the fifth ballot with Palmer losing strength.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The fourth ballot in the Democratic national convention today still found McAdoo, Palmer and Cox leading in that respective order, making occasional small gains about evenly divided.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—McAdoo led again on the first ballot of the day or the third ballot taken, but the predicted slide to him failed to materialize. Most of the original voters stood fast. The official total of the three leaders was: McAdoo, 323 1/2; Cox, 177; Palmer, 251 1/2.

Official McAdoo gain was 31 1/2; Cox, 16 gain, and Palmer showed a loss of 11 1/2.

North Carolinians furnished the first break to McAdoo; the delegates swinging from Senator Simmons. The change was expected.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The chiefs of the McAdoo, Palmer and Cox forces conferred constantly throughout the night and during the early morning almost up to the hour of the meeting of the convention.

At midnight, the hour of re-opening, the emphasis of the convention hall reflected the sleeplessness of the night for the leaders and the delegates for all were slow in arriving. Despite that it was the last day of the convention, if plans did not materialize and every one was trying to get up, it was a slow start. The band again filled in during the wait.

And the favorite cry for the band seemed to be "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles". Every one of the delegates seemed to feel that the air was particularly appropriate for the day.

There was certainly was a crowd of bubbles being blown in the convention hall for somebody, but nobody was coming to forward whose bubbles were going to be burst today.

There was conference after conference on the floor as leaders and delegates came in but they apparently were friendly and to all outward evidence the convention stood exactly where it stood at the close of the second ballot last night. There was not a man on the floor who could show any evidence to support his prediction of what was to happen today.

At nine-fifty-five o'clock, Chairman Robinson was on the platform with the chiefs of the convention managers and the delegates' spaces were

OUTDOOR VESPER SERVICE

A nation outdoor vesper service to be held on their church lawn, has been planned by the Bigelow M. E. and First Presbyterian churches for the Sunday evening of July 4 and August. The hour will be 7:30 new time to avoid the problem of artificial lighting, and much will be made of congregational singing. Should the weather be extra cool or damp, it will be easy to adjourn indoors.

The first of these services will be held Sunday evening in the spacious Bigelow lawn. Rev. C. E. Chandler, D. D. of Bigelow, will preside and Rev.

D. C. Boyd of First Presbyterian will deliver a short patriotic address on "Keeping the Flag Clean." Miss Alice Blake and her orchestra will provide several special musical numbers.

The splendid spirit of fellowship and cooperation on which has been a tradition between these two churches, uniting both congregations and patrons will no doubt make the summer plan a welcome one, especially during the hottest part of the season. Loyalty support is anticipated by both congregations, and many others may enjoy a return to the primitive worship of God out of doors.

NO MAIL DELIVERED MONDAY

There will be no mail delivery by carrier Monday, Wesley Grayer, superintendent of mails at the postoffice.

The stamp window will be open from 8 to 10 standard time, Monday morning.

Shupe Ordered To Pay Costs In Case

Frank Shupe, 840 Front street, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, pleaded guilty in municipal court Saturday and was ordered by the court to pay the costs in the case.

Shupe is alleged to have changed his name to the Selby shoe factory, where he is employed, and obtained money thereby which did not belong to him.

Shupe, it seems came clean with the story, telling all, and so it is reported around the court room, implicating others. Because of his straightforwardness in the matter he was not severely prosecuted.

Hurrah! Kiddies Will Have Fine Fourth

If Portsmouth people continue to send in their donations, the Children's Home "kiddies" are in line for a merry picnic party Monday, the "Fourth."

Plans are being made to have a picnic for the thirty children, who have not as yet received invitations to outside outings, on the big lawn of the home. The Children's Home Board is arranging to have some fireworks Monday night for the boys and girls.

It would be a great treat to the "kiddies" if some motor or picnic party would add two or three of them to their jolly crowd. The picnic supper plans are far from complete, and donations are acceptable. Any one wishing to send a picnic dish to add to the gaiety of the occasion, is requested to call on, and it will be called for.

K. of P's. Outing Held At Otway

The Knights of Pythias of Otway held their annual outing this Saturday. In Garvin's Grove near that village. A large attendance marked the annual celebration this year.

The program for the day included several speeches, good music and entertainment for all.

There were refreshments of all kinds on the grounds. N. & W. trains stopped at the Grove today to accommodate the crowd. The K. of P. picnic is always a big time for residents of Otway and vicinity.

Bad Men To Install.

At their next meeting, Friday, July 9th, the Improved Order of Red Men will install the recently elected officers.

DEPOSIT YOUR SAVINGS

STIRRING DEMONSTRATION FOR BRYAN PRECEDES HIS DEFEAT ON ALL HIS ISSUES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—Bryan consented to let the committee's report stand as a bone dry plank for the Democratic platform turned the convention almost upside down late yesterday afternoon with the magnetism and force of his oratory and started one of the greatest and noisiest demonstrations the assembly has yet seen.

When Bryan had concluded his reply to the advocates of a wet plank, the demonstration cut loose on the floor and wholly unaided by the band or the organ or any of the other instrumentalities which has been effectively used to keep other demonstrations going it proceeded spontaneously and resisted all efforts to get the convention back to order.

Bryan standing in the limelight at the edge of the speaker's platform and with tears of emotion coursing down his cheeks reviewed a procession of prohibition enthusiasts who tore up state standards and started a moving column of delegates about the hall. There was more than one fight over whether a state standard should go on the demonstration. A particularly spectacular battle raged around possession of the California standard where when Mrs. George C. Ormsby of Oakland attempted to carry the standard into the demonstration a number of men attempted to prevent it. Among them was an assistant sergeant-at-arms, Francis Hecker pointed on the man and threw him into the crowd. All that remained of the standard when the wreckage was cleared away was a tattered part of the "pastboard" top which one had torn the letters of the state's name. Alabama's standard suffered a similar fate and the bits were triumphantly borne about the hall by the prohibition forces.

During the demonstration some one bore the standard of Bryan's home state to the platform and reaching out Bryan lifted it high above the rest while the crowd roared.

Mr. Bryan presented his own five planks and a prohibition plank by former congressman Dohs and then W. Bourke Cockran of New York took the platform to prevent another minority report.

Mr. Cockran presented a substitute for Bryan's prohibition plank and declared that Mr. Bryan has presented the question of prohibition to "thank heaven the convention can no longer dodge it."

The plank which Mr. Cockran presented a plank which while prohibiting for the validity of the prohibition amendment, declared for the "manufacture for the home consumption only of cider light wines and beers."

"The convention greeted the reading of that plank with a mighty shout and prolonged cheers. It seemed to the states right to fix alcoholic content.

On motion of Senator Glass the debate was limited to three hours and thirty minutes on a suspension of the rules. Chairman Robinson recognized Bryan for one hour.

Bryan confined his arguments largely to contending that any weakening of the prohibition law was a dangerous step which opened the door to a breakdown of the whole prohibition law. Quoting freely from the Bible, Bryan convinced his audience with flashes of old-time oratory.

When he had concluded his preliminary statement Bryan yielded parts of the hour to several of his supporters.

When the convention had been in session an even seven hours it was still in the platform debate and a good hour which had not a vote.

The negotiations among some of the candidate managers for a recess after disposition of the platform and to balloting for a nominee at the night session did not seem to be making much progress. Some of the managers declared the work of the convention positively must be finished Saturday morning. It was proposed to adjourn all night and tomorrow with little interruption if necessary.

Judge Moore of Youngstown, Ohio, the Cox manager, said he had agreed to go through with an all night session for balloting and it was likely that the other candidate managers would agree.

The reading of the platform was concluded at 12:47 p. m. two hours and seven minutes after it began. At the concluding words the band started up again and the delegates stood and out loud with a crash of applause. Then there were some cries for "Bryan" and clamoring for the fight over adoption to begin.

Senator Glass motioned that the platform be read and read W. J. Bryan bounced out of his chair on the platform to begin his fight for his minority plank. He was greeted with a minute of cheering in which very few delegates took prominent part. Opening his speech diplomatically with praise for the platform he declared it one of the strongest ever adopted by a political party. He added that whatever difference of opinion there had been in the platform committee had been over the means and not the end of the accomplished, but it was one of the prerogatives of a democratic assembly to speak his own views.

Under the rules Mr. Bryan was required to read all of his proposed planks before the discussion of any of them could begin. The bone dry prohibition plank he presented first and then followed the declaration he had drafted for publication of a government monopoly for dealing with profane liquor. He put the plank on record as up and down for the party and then followed with a long and stirring speech.

When he came to the last of his five planks which dealt with the league of nations, Mr. Bryan presented his reading by saying that nothing remained to be done but to declare that the majority plank words of praise for the president. The plank, he added, was "better than any one with an independent voice for the world."

He then turned to the plank which dealt with the prohibition of liquor, and declared that the majority plank was "a plank which would be a disgrace to the party." He then turned to the plank which dealt with the league of nations, and declared that the majority plank was "a plank which would be a disgrace to the party."

He then turned to the plank which dealt with the prohibition of liquor, and declared that the majority plank was "a plank which would be a disgrace to the party."

He then turned to the plank which dealt with the league of nations, and declared that the majority plank was "a plank which would be a disgrace to the party."

He concluded the argument for its adoption by the convention.

When Mr. Bryan again took the platform to carry home his battle for the minority plank the crowd yelled again as his familiar figure reappeared at the speaker's table they soon quieted down.

Speaking for his plank for a national bulletin the Nebraska plank he the only plank one vote of a majority in the committee. The virtue of the publication, he suggested, would be that the people would get unbiased news that would be worth ten million dollars in a presidential campaign and that would prevent Wall street from building a fence of greenbacks around the White House.

Trailing provision of the treaty Bryan declared the path toward world peace had been cleared by the instrument's provisions for disarmament, open diplomatic negotiations and investigation of international differences.

"They will never be able to cross from the pages of history," he continued, "the name of Woodrow Wilson, who gave these great principles to the world. You cannot tell me the enemy of Woodrow Wilson. It was my peace plan he took to Paris and I have done all I could to help him get it ratified. If I could secure its ratification and let him have the credit of it, I'd gladly walk up to the scaffold and die for such a cause."

As Mr. Bryan concluded his speech with an oratorical picture of the benefits that would come to the world again the Nebraska plank came to the front of the platform and bowed as the bedlam kept up. A parade soon was organized on the convention floor, the Texas standard being the first to get into motion. Washington, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Virginia, Nebraska, Kentucky and Arizona and others followed and then more than a score were bunched in front of the speaker while the "enthusiasts" tore out their vocal chords with cheering. The old "We want Bryan" which had been heard in every Democratic convention since 1895 was about the only distinguishable yell in the great sea of sound.

When the confusion had continued twenty minutes the demonstration was rearing along almost totally oblivious to the efforts of the chairman to stem it. After twenty-three minutes of demonstration, the dry plank came on. Senator Glass in charge of the plank, the Republican plank, presented from the committee then presented Babbidge Colby, President Wilson's secretary of state and the floor manager of the administration forces in the convention.

Replying to Mr. Bryan's declaration that a stand for an immediate compromise ratification would nullify the demonstration from the convention, Colby said that the Democrats had been trying to do something like that for a long time. "The Democratic party," Mr. Colby said, "is for the league of nations without reservations that impair its integrity."

"The Republican party," the secretary continued, "is saying with its tongue in its cheek that we should take this league but should take it on their terms. They are trying to take away from the Democratic party the distinction of this great achievement."

Paying a tribute to the president, the administration leader got another roaring demonstration from the delegates gathered in the hall. The band began playing and a procession began to organize on the convention floor. The District of Columbia standard led the parade and was followed by the state standards again to the front of the hall. The Massachusetts plank was the last to join in all the demonstration lasted ten minutes.

Mrs. Marshall invariably accompanies her husband on all of his travels, so it was quite to be expected that she should attend the Democratic national convention with the vice president. They are seen here with Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, widow of the mining magnate who, in memory of her grandson, the late Vinson Walsh McLean, has transformed her home at the national capital into a workshop for the manufacture of clothing for poor children.

Combinations Against McAdoo Lack Strength; No Real Dark Horse

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920, by the Times Publishing Company)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—The old political adage "You can't beat nobody with nobody" applies directly to the situation in which the forces opposed to the nomination of McAdoo find themselves.

"We've stopped 'em" comes the whispered assurance from the Palmer scouts who are out in the lobbies keeping up the enthusiasm of their supporters. Somewhat the same thought proceeds from Cox people who talk vaguely about a combination of New York, Illinois, Indiana and Massachusetts which "will surely stop McAdoo's nomination."

McAdoo Supporters Use Strategy.

But on the inside where the leaders of all the houses foregather, another situation really exists. The McAdoo people have a few politicians and strategists in their ranks, and rather definite word was sent to the Cox headquarters that if the Cox delegates are covered into a combination, in fact McAdoo, there will never be any support given Cox if the convention stays deadlocked for a week. The same kind of a threat was sent to the Palmer managers. And naturally the men who are eager to nominate Palmer or Cox don't want to antagonize so large a block of votes as are held by the McAdoo men. To get voters' affirmative and not negative combinations must be made.

Tammany couldn't afford to enter into any combination against McAdoo. There are at least 20 votes for McAdoo in the New York delegation and if it became apparent that New York was trying to block the nomination of McAdoo, Tammany's chances of getting the Wilson nomination would be hopelessly slim. Similarly Tom Taggart who wants to run for senator next fall isn't taking any risks by inciting the unnecessary hostility of McAdoo men in Indiana. And George Brennan who is trying to inherit Roger Sullivan's leadership in Illinois is treading cautiously too.

Anti-McAdoo Opposition Intangible.

The talk of anti-McAdoo combinations has been less and less tangible because those who started it had far better of their own to fret forth and rapidly wanted to stop the McAdoo nomination as he seemed to be the leader in the race. The effort came too early. Both supporters of Palmer and Cox aren't thinking of their respective chances. Each group believes victory is possible and is pursuing a conciliatory course toward the rival camps. That's better politics than negative combinations.

It looks now as if the McAdoo strength on the first ballots will be larger than was anticipated. Having withstood the drive in the last 15 hours against their candidate, the McAdoo delegates sit tight, determined to stick to the very end. They act like crickets who know what they want. That's their strength, in fact it is the big factor in any convention. For an affirmative minority that knows what it wants has a much better chance of acquiring delegates than a negative minority that simply is out to beat somebody and cannot offer a substitute.

Dark Horses Numerous.

The talk of dark horses also came soon enough to help McAdoo for the merits and deserts of every Democratic prominence have been talked over by the delegates. Vice-President Marshall, Champ Clark and Homer Cummings are the dark horse trio. The first two would not be satisfactory to the Wilson forces who control this convention. The vice president is said to be opposed to the president's stand on the league of nations. The former speaker is held in high esteem but most of the delegates think he is too far advanced in years though his friends point to Clemens as an example of political vigor in the office.

Homer Cummings is perhaps the most popular with the convention personnel but the delegates to this gathering are aware that they must have a candidate who is popular with the masses too. If they don't want the contest against Harding to go by default, Cummings is an able lawyer and a splendid orator but he has never been elected to high office. He ran for United States senator in Connecticut once and was beaten. On the other hand McAdoo never was elected to any public post. Nevertheless he has had two big jobs—secretary of the treasury and director general of railroads—and the delegates who are for him are convinced that whether or not he is sufficient to win there is a decided possibility for McAdoo among the ranks and file of the Democrats throughout the nation, and that if McAdoo can't win next autumn no other leader in the race. The effort came too early.

To Hold All Day Outing

Saturday, August 7 will be the auspicious date of this summer, to the thousands of the countryside as on that day the large Grange picnic will be held in the W. C. Wells' Grove, one of the most beautiful places in the state. It will be an all day outing, beginning at 10 a. m. and lasting until the last tired plucker is ready to go home.

Mr. Wells is the chairman of the picnic and the weather permit the occasion will be one long to be remembered. Music, refreshments good time.

All farmers of Scioto County are cordially invited to bring up Mary and Joe or "time" up the river and join the picnic to the grove. Bring well filled baskets and the "kiddies" for a full day's outing.

"OUR STANDBY"

Ohio Lady Tells How Black-Draught Liver Medicine Keeps Her Family in Good Health.

Hillsboro, Ohio.—Mrs. Myrtle Jenkins, of this address, says: "I cannot say too much for the benefit we and my whole family have derived from the use of Black-Draught. It is our standby and as we often say 'our doctor bill saver.' If one of the children begin to complain of head or stomach ache or any of the signs that go with a cold, fever, or constipation, I give them a good dose of Black-Draught and they are soon always get right. I often feel out of sorts and get a bad taste in the mouth, then I take a good dose. I at one time had a case of chronic constipation and was nervous and run down on account of it. Also had a few headaches. I would take pills and other medicines that would grip me and then I would be more constipated than ever. This is how I first began the use of Black-Draught, first in full doses, then in small doses, and was cured. My children get a cold and I have never found a better laxative. I cannot say too much for what Black-Draught has done for us."

Theodore's Black-Draught should be in your medicine chest. Get a package today. All druggists. 25 cents a package. One cent a dose. NCB-12

Does The Bible Offer Any Hope For Non-Church Members?

FREE BIBLE LECTURE BY

C. P. Stotler V. D. M.

In TEMPLE THEATRE

SUNDAY, JULY 4th, AT 2:30 P. M.

More than sixty two million people in the United States are not church members. More than a billion people in the world are not Christians. This is true only of the present generation. The same, or a larger, proportion of past generations have not been Christians. What is the Divine purpose with respect to these? Is there any hope for them?

You are invited to hear Mr. Stotler discuss this matter from a strictly bible standpoint on Sunday afternoon. He is a thorough Bible Student and a forceful, convincing speaker.

"Motorize The Farm"

The possibility of a serious food shortage this coming winter is bringing the farmer and his problems most forcibly into the public eye. The scarcity of farm labor is being felt everywhere and it is estimated that there will be 10 percent less average under cultivation this year than last which will mean a corresponding increase in the cost of foodstuffs. So that the farmers who are able to utilize their maximum acreage this year and market their products will make more money than they have ever made before.

The real source of the farmer's troubles lies in the fact that farming methods have not kept pace with industrial progress. He has clung to the horse, which is the most wasteful and inefficient of power units, long after the tractor and truck have proven their dependability and economy.

The following paragraph contains some very striking facts which were published in a recent issue of Leslie's Magazine:

"The horse! Never before has the world so much needed the bounty of nature combined with the energy of man. And yet in this country alone, 135,000,000 acres of fertile soil are devoted to the sustenance of the horse. This land comparing in area, approximately to that of the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, could be used to feed the starving world of the farm tractor and motor truck were used to replace the 12,000,000 horses. The truck and tractor, too, require food in the form of fuel, but the gasoline and kerosene comes from deep down underneath the ground and not from the fertile soil which could otherwise be used to produce crops for human consumption. With farm land selling from $100 to $200 per acre, the investment of capital in land to maintain so inefficient a machine as the horse has proved himself to be is little short of criminal. The horse has his special uses and should not compete with a farm or transportation machine which can perform the work of from six to a dozen horses at a marked saving in operating costs."

On farms that are properly motorized increased acreage can be handled and increased yields secured at less cost with less man power. For example, if the proper seed bed is made for corn and it is cultivated at the right time, it is as easy to produce a 60 bushel to the acre crop of corn as it is a 30 bushel. The cost per bushel of producing a 30 bushel crop of corn in the middle states is approximately 34 cents, while the cost per bushel of a 60 bushel crop is about 21 cents; and not only has the farmer the added 30 bushels, but he has an additional 15 cents per bushel profit on his entire yield.

The more progressive farms throughout the country are fast realizing the fact that the motor truck is capable of doing in a third of the time what the team and wagon once did, and this time saved enables the farmer to do a more perfect job of preparation, planting, cultivating and harvesting.

Few farmers will argue against the value of the motor truck or tractor in their business, but what they need is intelligent and faithful representation as to size, power, quality, body and tire equipment and cost of operation.

The present difficulties which the farmer is encountering will unquestionably cause a quicker and more general adoption of power farming, for he realizes that by motorizing his farm with truck and tractor he has only means of solving the labor and transportation difficulties.

WILLIAM FARNUM - DIRECTION WILLIAM FOX

Don't Miss William Farnum in "The Man Hunter" At The Eastland Theatre Tonight. A Regular Farnum Fighting Picture Full of Pep, Punch and Romance

William Farnum, the Fox star, will be the attraction at the Eastland tonight in an original story, called "The Man Hunter." This is another of those productions, the scenes being laid in London and New York and at sea. In it Mr. Farnum has three terrific fights — and they are real Farnum fights. They are also some pretty scenes aboard ship and a realistic shipwreck, followed by Mr. Farnum and the girl in the cave, together with the villain, being cast ashore on a desert island. It is a lively story that contains throughout at potent appeal to all motion picture followers.

The realistic shipwreck is probably one of the biggest and most thrilling scenes ever flashed on the screen. The sea ferocity, will be the added feature tonight.

Hunting Love Melody

Sounds serious, doesn't it? But only to sweethearts. Fewer do lovers find more delightful music and words in a song that appeals to them and the uncertain aspect of love. "Drifting" is sweeping like a cyclone over the country, and the reason? The charm in melody will answer that.

DRIFTING

The secret of this song's popularity seems to lie in the fact that it is aimed to bring out the choice, containing a number of odd harmonies, although no high notes. The melody blends charmingly with the lyrics and leaves a profound impression on the hearer. This song is especially recorded for all phonographs and player-pianos.

Adjournment Taken Over Protest

Adjournment announced 3 votes for Wood. He was drowned out by demands to know whether the candidate was General Wood. A lot of good natured raillery followed and then it was explained that the votes were for Chandler M. Wood of Boston, president of the Metropolitan Trust company.

As the roll call went on there were several states outside of those having favorite sons that did not scatter their total among several candidates. Texas was on exception, giving her solid delegation of 40 to McAdoo.

All three of the leaders made gains on the second ballot, McAdoo picking up 23 and making his total 259; Palmer receiving 10 additional, making 264, while Cox gained 25 giving him a total of 159. The Palmer forces who had opposed an adjournment following the adoption of the platform were now anxious to discontinue balloting until today, but the McAdoo people would not consent and passed the word around that they expected their candidate to go over on the fourth ballot. They were determined to remain in session. Former Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, moved an adjournment as soon as the result of the second ballot was announced, and the motion was adopted.

When Massachusetts had been passed on the second ballot, Palmer had 118, a gain of 4 over the first ballot. McAdoo, 104, 12, a gain of 2. Cox, 12, a gain of 2. The result was a gain of 24 for McAdoo and 12 for Cox. Mississippi 20 votes were swung from John Sharp Williams into the Cox column. In Missouri Palmer gained 4 and McAdoo 2.

In the next several states there were slight increases to both McAdoo and Palmer. New Jersey's 25 continued with Edwards. New York stood by Smith, and North Carolina remained with Simmons as on the first ballot and Cox retained the total from his state, Ohio, as did Senator Owen, of Oklahoma.

There was no change in the Pennsylvania vote. Palmer lost one in Rhode Island and lost three in Tennessee, while McAdoo gained 2. Texas was cheered when she again turned over all of her 40 votes for McAdoo. Utah also continued in the McAdoo column.

McAdoo Makes Big Gains

or to "come-on," as his enemies declared the opposition was still there, seemingly of formidable proportions, while it did seem to offer no state for beating McAdoo, still it continued to occupy a position where the McAdoo forces had produced no tangible plan for beating it.

There the situation lay for the convention to take it up and fight it out in the battle of the ballots when it resumed today.

One consideration which seemed to make it difficult for the anti-McAdoo forces to make progress was that there was no way to trade McAdoo out of his position by direct methods, as none of the men in charge of his campaign here had any authority and there was nothing to be offered him in way of a place that would interest him. The McAdoo appeal was today being directed to larger states, such as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, and much missionary work was being done. New York was the greatest stumbling block.

McAdoo supporters in the New York delegation said to number anywhere from 15 to 20, did nothing in the opening ballots to antagonize the Tammany leaders.

They voted solidly for Governor Smith. This situation, it was pointed out, gave all outside appearances of Murphy being in control.

Another consideration being capitalized by the McAdoo supporters was that Sunday and Monday are holidays, and the tired delegates want to start home.

May Black Convention

A group of McAdoo delegates, declared by McAdoo supporters to represent more than enough votes to block the convention, at a meeting last night pledged themselves to vote definitely for their candidate regardless of any turn the convention might take.

During the early hours there were many reports as to what certain delegations would do. One of these was that the Georgia men might leave Palmer after a ballot or two and go to McAdoo. Another was that Nebraska would give four or five votes to Owen and the remainder to McAdoo. Virginia, it was said, with some show of authority, would stick to Senator Glass for a while and then also swing into the McAdoo column.

Scattered delegates were talking of first making a drive with Palmer and with Cox. Illinois was considering trying Cox, if Palmer's chances appeared hopeless. New Jersey and Indiana delegates, it was whispered about, were also considering going along with the Cox procession.

Bryan Defeated But Admired

White with fatigue, wet-eyed with emotion, defended by the roaring tribute of thousands, William Jennings Bryan last night stood before the convention at a new crossroads in his quarter century of public life.

Silent with sober eyes, his heavy figure in wrinkled alpaca under the merciless glare of the spotlights, he heard a sonorous chorus of "noes" once by one strike down the issues he had raised.

But there was no galvanizing the gentleness of the tribute he received, even in defeat. It was given to the man with an utter abandon, without aid of hand or pipe organ, or other trappings of organized political demonstrations. It sprang from the galleries, the balconies, the floor and swept into tumult of its admiration for the man. But there were others who sat unmoved. They formed a solid block in the center of the floor about which the sea of sound and feeling raged unheeded.

From the moment when reading of the platform was finished and he took the stand amid cries of "Bryan, Bryan, Bryan," to present the plank for which he prepared to fight, the old leader was keyed for the effort of his life. Against him, he knew, were giants of debate. For that reason he divided his time, swiftly presenting the outlines of his case, then yielding to others who would pave the way for the climax he had planned for himself. It was plain that it was the bone dry issue on which Mr. Bryan would center his effort to sweep the convention off its feet. He had something to say for the League of Nations, program of retaliation which he proposed. On this he flatter differed with the president at the Jackson day dinner in Washington to set going the struggle that ended yesterday in sweeping victory for the president. He paid lavish tribute to Mr. Wilson's place in history and to his leadership; he talked for fully of three lesser issues he had brought to the convention for decision; but it was the dry plank on which he had staked every vestige of magnetic power over men's hearts he possessed.

Reached New Heights Of Fervor

In the twenty minutes of dramatic appeal which closed his crusade, his audience was swung until it seemed that he played upon its emotions at will. When he hurled his last defiance at the liquor traffic with a prediction that when the veil was torn aside, when the women of the nation were given full political liberty through the ratification of the suffrage amendment by another state they and the child-dren would be found battling for the cause he championed, a great shout went surging up into the vaulted dome of the roof in an endless sea of sound. It urged into action a Texas delegate, who pulled the state standard from the door and drove through the aisle to the platform. A score of state standards joined to form a holly-wood along the platform front. A battle was fought around the California standard and it was snatched to fragments. A woman delegate from California, finally was carried up to the speakers' stand, waving frantically a tattered remnant of the state emblem. Another woman, dressed in white and with a diamond earring, and this was the only sign of a protestant effort at a demonstration.

Delegates Set Unmoved

Mr. Bryan came again and again to the edge of the stand to wave to the crowd below. His face was shining and the spotlights made the tears that rolled slowly over the deep furrows of his face, sparkle like jewels. He was moved deeply and showed it, but his eyes went always toward that silent sitting group of delegates which could not be in the line of feeling that swept down from the galleries.

It took desperate persistence of the crowd to quiet the storm. It took only to swell up again. Finally, after a threat that the galleries would be cleared, Baltimore Daily Secretary of state, rose to suggest for the adjournment on the breach issue.

Cox unspooled in speech. President Wilson's unpopularity struck at once at the emotional qualities in the appeal. Mr. Bryan had made. He dismissed the great effort of the Nebraska convention almost without notice, and proposed his own hope, with figures of which that beautiful twilight at times and with consummate skill sought to turn aside the rush of feeling Mr. Bryan had counted upon. He also was accorded a reception and a demonstration, this time with the noise and cheering supported by hand and organ, but the crisis was over.

Mine Owners Turn Down U.S. Mediators

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., July 3.—Interest in the strike of Mingo county, W. Va., and Pike county, Ky., coal miners, called by the United Mine Workers last Wednesday, today centered about efforts of federal mediators to settle the controversy. Operators, in a statement last night, refused to submit the case to the department of labor representatives, declaring that as union recognition was a question at issue, there was no middle ground, as they did not intend to recognize the organization.

The government mediators, F. J. Felix and L. R. Thomas, were still in Williamson this morning, and it was expected that they would issue a statement today relative to their efforts to settle the controversy.

Quiet prevailed throughout the mining districts early today. Operators said that some of the miners absent from work were taking the usual holiday prior to the Fourth of July, and that production continued at a high mark. Union officials declared the strike had affected operations in a number of mines.

The families of many of the striking miners, recently evicted from company houses, are quartered in tents throughout the Tug River valley. Many of the families are from Pike county, Ky., across the river. The largest tent colony is at Nolan, a few miles from here, where 120 tents house as many families. Other colonies have been established at Rawl, Springs and Matewan.

The special grand jury investigating the recent shooting at Matewan during which seven private detectives, the mayor, a miner and a boy were killed, continues its daily sessions here.

Akron Car Men To Strike

AKRON, O., July 3.—Union street car platform men, meeting here at 2:30 this morning voted to call a strike effective Akron, Berberon, Kenmore, Cuyahoga Falls and Wadsworth, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Their action follows the failure of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company to increase current's wages in keeping with the finding of the arbitration board and the city's failure to increase fares.

The public utilities committee of council this morning was preparing an offer of a 5 cent rate for the traction company in an effort to avert the strike. A. C. Blinn, vice president, said before the offer was submitted that it would be rejected. He asks a seven cent fare.

Italians Want A Fifth Of The Indemnity

BRUSSELS, July 3.—(By the Associated Press) Italian delegates to the allied conference here are understood to be standing firmly for the payment to their country of 20 percent of the indemnity to be paid by Germany. Means to readjust other shares so as to satisfy Italy's demands have not as yet been found, and Belgian delegates are showing great surprise that they should be required to make sacrifices for the sake of Italy.

Owing to the failure of the premier to come to an agreement yesterday, this morning's session of the supreme council was replaced by informal conferences at the headquarters of Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain.

Whether an agreement is reached, various delegations will leave for Spa tomorrow morning. It being held that any disagreement is but a question of detail, which the allies can settle either before or after the Spa conference, and one in which Germany is not concerned.

Plants Revived by Sleep

After the period of growth in spring and summer there is a period of dormancy in plants before the cold weather sets in, and if plants are maintained artificially at a high temperature this dormant period persists. Exposure to cold is needed to activate the plant for another period of growth. Perhaps the liberation of enzymes acts on the stored starches, converting them into sugars, or the phenomenon may be due to a change in the permeability of the cell-membrane. Though normally the stimulus required for a renewal of growth is supplied by cold, mechanical injury or a period of drying may have the same effect. The process occurs independently in any exposed part of the plant, so that if one or two branches of a plant to keep continually warm while the other is subjected to the usual winter chill, the former will not develop normally on the return of summer temperature, though the latter develops as usual.

Robinson Crusoe's Island.

Tobago's failure to obtain greater recognition of its importance as the "only authentic Robinson Crusoe Island" is doubtless due to the fact that it is a retiring little island, concerned chiefly with its plantations and trade. Leaving Crusoe out altogether, Tobago has had an eventful history from the time it was discovered by Christopher Columbus, on his third voyage, when England took it from France in 1593 and started to turn it into a profitable colony. Its present estate after a century of English rule is less that of a desert island than of a partly wooded, partly cultivated and built up isle of the tropics.

Youth Predigal With Opinions.

You can get a measure of youth from its readiness to offer an opinion. That's inevitable. Youth has a fund of ideas that it must tell everybody who it does not. Men of broad experience are satisfied to wait until their opinion is asked. Youth and fresh folk past youth are perfectly ready to tell you just what to do and show in a little criticism for good measure. We need the dash and ardor of youth, but it's a little amusing at times to note the extent to which immature advice is proffered to people—Exchange.

SQUARELY BEFORE THE PARTY

THE despicable trick to defeat Harvey C. Smith for re-nomination for secretary of state, has been circumvented. Harold C. Smith, a mere youth, entered against him, has withdrawn his papers, on charge that his entry was not made in good faith, and the name of Harry C. Smith, the negro, has been eliminated on the ground that his entry was made to confuse and deceive the public.

This leaves the race to be decided directly between Harvey C. Smith, present incumbent, and Charles Q. Hildebrandt, former secretary of state, in whose interest the attempt to foist the other Smiths upon the primary ticket was made.

It is not our funeral. We have no acquaintance with Harvey C. Smith and no intent of voting for him if he be nominated, but we do stand for fairness and decency in politics and we rejoice that a contemptible artifice, to defeat him before his party has been brought to naught; while it is a source of satisfaction to see that in the county and the district where Hildebrandt resides, Republican committees have had the sense and courage to come squarely out in the open and declare for Smith's nomination. They know full well, of course, that men, who are powerful in the party, were the actual authors of the scheme to hamstring him, but that knowledge hasn't frightened them from a stand every honest Republican should be proud to take.

THE THREE THAT COUNT

EFFORTS to have either Walter Brown or Frank Willis withdraw from the race for the Republican nomination for senator, have failed and the contest, it now appears, will go on to a finish.

There are five aspirants, but the three outstanding are Brown, Willis and Judge Wannamaker. The two others are already set down in the also ran class.

The effort of the old guard Republicans will be concentrated against Wannamaker, who was an original Bull Moose and has since been an insurgent and a disturber, commanding a large personal following, that was sufficient to secure him the party nomination and election as supreme judge. Perhaps, the politicians thought they would now be rid of him, but he returns to plague them more sorely than ever. For it is painfully evident that with Willis and Brown dividing the vote that is always regular he becomes a most formidable figure in the senatorial candidacy.

That fact is going to become more evident as the primary draws nigher and it may yet be that some heroic steps will be taken to eliminate one or the other of the men, whose strength makes Wannamaker stronger. Certainly, both are hanging desperately on to Harding's coat-tails, but the exigencies of the case and "something equally as good" may tempt one to let go.

Beginning to dawn on those eastern papers that there are a few Democrats left in the country and process of killing them off is just as hard as it ever was.

Having given full and free opportunity for the several hundred delegates and the several thousand spectators to pump all the wind out of their lungs and kept its contact with the hotel keepers, the Frisco convention can now get down to the only work while work it had on hand, the nomination of candidates.

Say what they will the spell of the spell-binder is still upon the land. Nobody took the candidacy of his man seriously, but only on one other occasion and that when the picture of the party's great leader was suddenly unfolded to its view, did the emotional San Francisco convention go into such thrills and throbs of ecstasy as when Bourke Cochran, the country's most magnificent orator, presented to it the name of Governor Smith.

If all of the name would pledge to vote for him the Frisco convention might go further and fare worse than in nominating Governor Smith, of New York.

The Republican state platform plays it safe by generally denouncing lynching. Of course, a little thing like wrecking a jail and hanging three Negroes, way up north in a place like Duluth puts no pause in our divine work of rebuking and reforming the South.

Looks as though the Frisco convention was going to have more trouble with the Anti-Saloon League than with the League of Nations.

Strange that the people's William should be so far from expressing the people's will.

Don't know but what the Republican plan is best after all. When its delegates assembled at Chicago they found a platform already cut, builded and sand papered for them, but to San Francisco came a thousand fellows and putative artisans carrying a plank, or a splinter and days were consumed in formulating and finishing. Platforms are not the serious and pregnant things statesmen and leaders assume them to be, provided the politicians are shrewd and strong enough to keep out of them the few things that ought not to be said. Not one voter in a hundred reads them or cares what is in them, ordinarily.

The Diary of an Engaged Girl

WHEREIN LINDSEY AND LAURA AGREE SOME MORE

After we had discussed our upbringing and tried to puzzle out just why two such vibrant spirits as ourselves had ever been wished into two such conservative families, Laura and I again went back to the subject of the future. And, oh, how tough that little word does mean to both of us! Laura said that she would be so glad not to have to live by rule any more, and she knows that she will not have to, when once she is Mrs. Travers. Her idea of a paradise on earth is a small home with few duties in it and long, long hours to herself. She explained that all her life she had been subjected to rules and regulations, first with governesses and then later with her school, teachers and mother. Mrs. Hildebrandt is a disciplinarian and has always insisted on her home being run like clockwork. Well, she and mother will always get on beautifully. And now they will have still another bond in common, or rather a new topic of conversation between them, Laura and Lindsey's shortcomings!

How I did laugh when Laura explained to me just how she wanted to live when she was married. First of all there should never be a stick of mahogany in her home. No, far rather plain, unvarnished and unpolished wood, than the pompous ugliness of the former. Mahogany was just made to vary the lives out of housekeepers and accumulate dust. And it was all Queen Victoria's fault, anyhow that it had ever become fashionable, according to Laura. I was not up on my history enough to discuss this, however.

Then there is a ban on honest to goodness tablecloths. If she has her way, Morgan will eat his meals off a pine table, kept well oiled, like you do down in that romantic little Greenwich Village inn. That's her idea of table perfection.

The five and ten-cent store is to supply them with their napery, which is to be of simple, unadorned, crinkly paper. Dear, how I laughed at this, for Jack and I had both decided the other day that such were the kingdoms of heaven! Especially as the laundries had gone up so terribly in price and were so fond of destroying your clothes. I told this to Laura and she nodded her head very wisely, and said, "Of course he'd feel the same way, but he's my brother, and hasn't he suffered from the same things as I have for years?" "That's true," said I. I next found out that there were to be practically no rugs on the floor of the Travers' home, they made for dirt, and were a relic of Victorian days, too, according to Laura. My, but that girl has planned out every little detail, I'll say. Last but not least is the fact that they are to keep open house with no set invitations and all and any of their friends always welcome. The poor child has never been allowed to just drop in to a meal with a chum at her mother's home, and is itching to be able to feel free in this respect in her own. This is natural.

Paper napkins and bare tables, plus a warm welcome, make for conviviality it is a dinner, and all dinners should be so. All this gleaming and expensive paper and cut-glass such as she had been reared on, make for heartiness of spirit and are most oppressive. One feels that one must live up to the power and the glory of it all. I am right with Laura in every detail. I see that we will be able to entertain each other when we are married without any soul struggles or tears. Hurrah for a human sort of a sister-in-law!

DOE KOKO'S KOLUM

For The Good You Can Do
 Not for the sake of the gold,
 Not for the sake of the fame,
 Not for the prize would I hold
 Any ambition or aim;
 I would be brave and true
 Just for the good I can do.

I would be useful on earth
 Serving some purpose or cause,
 Doing some labor of worth,
 Giving no thought of applause,
 Thinking less for the gold or the fame
 Than the joy and the thrill of the game.

Medals their brightness may lose,
 Fame be forgotten or fade,
 Any reward we may choose
 Leaves the account still unpaid,
 But little real happiness lies
 In fighting alone for a prize.

Give me the thrill of the task,
 The joy of the battle and strife,
 Of being of use, and I'll ask
 No greater reward from this life,
 Better than fame or applause
 Is striving to further a cause.

THEY say money talks. The trouble is so many of us have an impediment in our tongues.

BILLY WHISKER

Six Months later we find Billy Jr., and Stubby near the City of Mexico, on a large stock farm, where are raised fierce blooded bulls. Intended for the bull fights that take place every Sunday in the city.

It would take too long to tell of all the troubles and mishaps the two friends met with on their long journey from San Francisco to Old Mexico, but with all their trials they enjoyed it, for both were good travelers and made the best of things without complaining when matters could not be helped.

Once Stubby came very near getting drowned in a fierce mountain stream that had become swollen from recent rains until it was twice its usual size. Caught in one of the swirling eddies, he was spun round and round, until dizzy and sick, he could not open his eyes, and had not strength enough left to swim against the strong swift current. He was just giving up hope when he felt some large object strike his side and, opening his eyes for an instant, he saw Billy Jr., who swam out to rescue him.

"Climb on my back, Stubby," Billy cried, "and I will swim to help you." Stubby did as he was bidden and soon they were shaking themselves dry on the bank.

Another mishap, one in which Stubby was the hero and saved Billy Jr., a life occurred one moonlight night on the bank. "What's going on in the parlor?" asked the old friend who had come in the back way.

"Meeting of our own foreign relations committee," answered Mr. Cummings. "Mother and the girls are talking over the family affairs of my oldest daughter, who married one of those overseas noblemen."

"The Usual Thing," thundered Senator Blawhew, "day and night, from every stump and hustling, I have denounced in no uncertain tones the merciless rapacity of the soulless profiteers, and—"

"But," we asked, "what have you done about it?"

"Done? Heavens above! Haven't I just said I denounced it?"—Kansas City Star.

Her Grocery Order
 The young wife was greeted by the obsequious grocer with a request to know what he could have the pleasure of serving her with, and she proceeded to place her first order as follows:

"Please send me up five pounds of paralyzed snuff for frosting."

"Yes'm. Anything else?"

"Yes; send me three cans of condemned milk."

"Yes'm. What else?"

"I want some salt if you have any that is fresh. You must be sure that it is nice and fresh."

"Yes'm! I have some perfectly fresh—just came in this morning. Do you want anything else, ma'am? I have some very fine horseradish."

"No, thank you. I do not care for any. We do not keep a house."

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY G. S. MENTRE

NEW YORK, July 3.—Prohibition has not eliminated the professional bouncer in the gay haunts of pleasure. Tip at Tom Healy's and at Jack's in the old days the waiters had a "flying wedge" that appeared mysteriously as though dropping from champagne or emerging from trap doors. They had the obnoxious customer out in the air before he knew just what had happened. The effect was to cool the burst of temperament. The evolution of the bouncer has been gradual. The first bouncer on record was at McGuirk's Suicide Hall on the Bowery. He was an ex-convict with a cauliflower ear, peck marked and wore a flaming corset tie and a derby at a tilted angle. When a visitor stood up and announced he was ready to lick the world, this bouncer didn't stop to argue. He merely swung on him with a powerful right and the little birds began to twitter.

In these latter days, however, the bouncer has a polish. He wears evening clothes, visits the manicure parlors and even postcards his hair. He is given the title of "assistant manager" and when trouble is brewing he is peace messenger bearing the olive twig with sleek phrases of diplomacy. If he fails he calls the police and ends the matter. There is a rough work.

The flask parties sometimes over indulge. And with the blended prices they consume they fall into a sort of alcoholic haze. The chief problem is to keep them awake. At one famous place the other night shortly after midnight the "assistant manager" found a party of eight soundly sleeping. And all were staring too loudly for the comfort of their neighbors. They were awakened and asked to leave. Both men and women yawned all the way out and looked sleepily.

There is always material for a circus attraction in any block on Broadway. In a half hour the other night an observer noticed: Five Highlanders in kilts; a 7 foot Mexican in a revolutionary soldier's uniform; three dwarfs; two young women, one carrying a small brown ringtail monkey and the other wearing a trained chameleon; a barefoot boy leading a dog that had a pipe in its mouth and an old sandwich man advertising a sure cure alo, who by the skillful use of a mask appeared to be walking both backward and forward at the same time.

Whenever Jack Cowi dies, I always weep right out loud and a burlesque comedian slapping his pal over the head and a slapstick is unfailing in bringing the explosive emotion. And yet I remain strangely aloof and unmotional at the film company's black-tie affair. But he has asked for a momentous film she will appear in upon her return. With Tiny Tim the candy vendor of Greenwich Village, one might exclaim: "Ain't art hell!"

While on the subject of films, my readers may be interested in hearing of the success that has come to my Boston bull pup. Mention of him has crept into this chatter from time to time without scratching at the doors of film producers or going the weary round of the agencies he has been given a part in a film play. Since the event he has been rather upish except when he is outgrown his humble surroundings. It is to sit in an automobile at the side of Miss Ethel Clayton for two blocks. And nothing more.

What advice would you offer under the circumstances?

"My advice," replied Senator Sprohman, "is almost any kind of a crisis is not to waste much time in offering or requesting advice."

No Exceptions
 "I wonder why when I spoke to Janet her color rose?"

"I suppose it is because everything is going up these days."

Rev. O. J. Kvale
 One of the outstanding features of the recent primary election in Minnesota was the defeat of Representative Andrew J. Volstead in the seventh congressional district.

Mr. Volstead had made a good record in congress and had been a rational figure because of the fact that the federal prohibition enforcement law bears his name, and for this reason there appeared to be no doubt of his re-election. He was a native of Wisconsin, in which state he was ordained a minister of the gospel twenty-six years ago. He is married and has three sons, two of whom served with the American forces during the world war. Mr. Kvale is an ardent prohibitionist, and has been an opponent of the saloon ever since his organization in his campaign.

Through listed as a Republican, he entered the congressional race with the indorsement of the Non-Partisan League and had the support of that organization in his campaign.

His successful opponent, O. J. Kvale, is pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Boulder, Minn. WET AND DRY PLANKS THROWN OUT TWO BALLOTS TAKEN, MCADOO LEADS, COX RUNNING THIRD Committee Draft Of Platform Adopted Unchanged

Balloting Will Resume
At San Francisco Shortly
After The Noon Hour

FIRST BALLOT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The following is the result of the first ballot: McAdoo 286, Palmer 256, Cox 134, Gerard 21, Cummings 23, Owen 38, Hitchcock 18, Meredith 27, Smith 109, Edwards 42, Davis 22, Glass 26 1/2, Simmons 24, Harrison 6, Williams 20, Marshall 37, Wood 4, Champ Clark 3, Underwood 1-2, Hearst 1, Bryan 1, Colby 1, Daniels 1.

SECOND BALLOT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—The following is the result of the second ballot: McAdoo 289, Palmer 264, Cox 159, Cummings 27, Gerard 12, Edwards 34, Owen 39, Davis 31 1/2, Marshall 36, Hitchcock 16, Bryan 1, Clark 6, Daniels 1, Meredith 26, Smith 101, Harrison 7, Simmons 25, Glass 11 1/2.

728 Votes Nominate

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—There are 1,992 votes in the Democratic National Convention. It requires a two-thirds, or 728 votes to nominate.

McAdoo or Cox and McAdoo and Cox were the leading predictions, coupled with talk of McAdoo and Meredith. On the other hand, the forces pitted against McAdoo pointed out in answer to the claims of a "glacial movement" toward President Wilson's re-election, that he had failed in the two ballots already taken to make the gains that were claimed for him. The Cox in fact made greater gains in the one day's balloting than McAdoo, and that so far there had been no tangible evidence of the McAdoo landslide, his supporters here were predicting.

The Palmer people made no particular claims, but although in the one day's balloting they gained 10 votes, they lost more than that from their rivals. Delegates and replenishees from their reserve.

At the convention went into what promises to be the final phase of the battle, the McAdoo forces reiterated their prediction of early victory, and the Cox people, apparently confident, declared they would not only hold their lines but would make necessary adjustments, that the McAdoo "earthquake" would stop short of the necessary two-thirds for a nomination.

Unable to Agree On Dark Horse

The night was given over to conference and planning among the field armies of the opposing forces. Efforts to find a Harding for the San Francisco convention had been unsuccessful, but despite the fact that the moment in opposition to McAdoo had failed to produce a rallying point,

STIRRING DEMONSTRATION FOR BRYAN PRECEDES HIS DEFEAT ON ALL HIS ISSUES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—Wm. Jennings Bryan, with one of his old time speeches in support of a bone dry plank for the Democratic platform turned the convention almost upside down last night, yesterday afternoon, with the magnificence and force of his oratory and started one of the greatest and noisiest demonstrations the assembly has yet seen.

When Bryan had concluded his reply to the advocates of a wet plank, the demonstration cut loose on the floor and the speaker's head and shoulders were pelted with the head of the organ or any of the other instrumentalities which have been effectively used to keep other demonstrations going. It proceeded spontaneously and resisted all efforts to get the convention back to order.

Bryan standing smiling in the line of light at the edge of the speaker's platform and with tears of emotion coursing down his cheeks reviewed a procession of prohibition enthusiasts who tore up state standards and started a moving column of delegates about the hall. There was more than one fight over whether a state standard should go on the demonstration. A particularly spectacular battle raged around possession of the California standard where when Mrs. George C. Demsey of Oakland attempted to carry the standard into the demonstration a number of men attempted to prevent it. Among them was an assistant sergeant-at-arms. Francis Hersey pounced on the man and threw him into the

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920, by the Times Publishing Company)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—The old political adage "You can't beat anybody with nobody" applies directly to the situation in which the forces opposed to the nomination of McAdoo find themselves.

"We've stopped 'em" comes the whispered assurance from the Palmer scouts who are out in the lobbies keeping up the enthusiasm of their supporters. Somewhat the same thought proceeds from Cox people who talk vaguely about a combination of New York, Illinois, Indiana and Massachusetts which "will surely stop McAdoo's nomination."

But on the inside where the leaders of all the hoons foregather, another situation really exists. The McAdoo people have a few pettifoggers and scoundrels in their ranks, and rather selfishly want to see the Cox delegates carried into a combination to beat McAdoo, there will never be any support given Cox if the convention stage developed for a week. The same kind of a threat was sent to the

Adjournment Taken Over The Protest Of The McAdoo Leaders

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 3.—The Democratic platform as framed in the resolutions committee declaring for the peace treaty, expressing sympathy for Ireland and saying nothing at all about prohibition came unscathed through a furious floor fight today and "was" adopted without amendment in a great avalanche of applause.

W. J. Bryan led the fight for adoption of his bone dry plank but it was hurried after a dramatic day of debate by a majority so overwhelming that he did not even ask for a roll call on the four other minority reports which he had prepared.

A color, blue and beer plank championed in an emotional speech by W. Bourke Cockran of New York also was thrown out by the convention along with a plank for recognition of the Irish Republic, backed by several organizations of Irish sympathizers.

In the battle for the platform, as framed the administration forces were led by Secretary Cullis and Senator Glass of Virginia during a debate in which both sides stirred delegates and spectators to repeated outbreaks of up roar and emotional enthusiasm.

Mr. Bryan got a howling demonstration of twenty minutes after he concluded his speech for the bone dry plank but when the balloting began it became apparent that much of the enthusiasm was a personal tribute to his past service to the party and not an expression of sympathy with his present views.

With the platform adopted the convention was up with its schedule and the voting on presidential candidates began.

Alabama, the first state to be called, split its strength many ways but McAdoo got the lion's share of it, 9 votes. In Arkansas, too, McAdoo had a wide edge, taking four of six votes. Cox got more than any other candidate in the Arkansas delegation. Ten of California's twenty-six went to McAdoo.

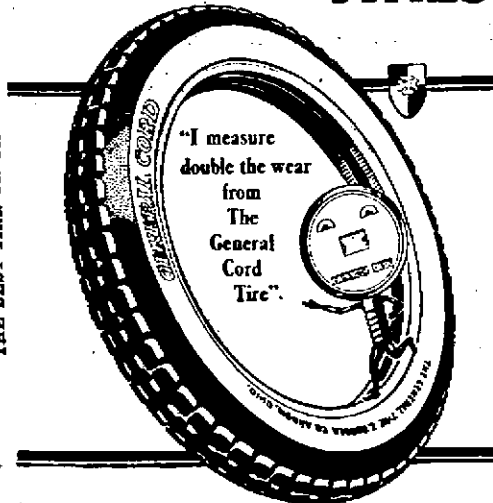

The first state from which Palmer got a plurality was Colorado. Connecticut cast her 14 solidly for Cummings. Delaware and Florida both scattered their strength widely and then Georgia cast her 28 for Palmer and Idaho followed by giving all of her eight to McAdoo. Palmer got the best of the count in Illinois, taking 33 of the 58.

When the twenty votes of Kansas were cast solidly for McAdoo it became apparent that the race for the best showing on the first ballot would be between McAdoo and Palmer unless there was an upset further down the roll of states. Many of the states were distributing their strength as a compliment to various candidates, however, and it seemed almost certain that there would be no nomination on that ballot.

There were some lissers when Massachusetts cast one of her 36 for Wm. R. Hearst and there was a roar of applause a moment later when 17 from that state went to Palmer. Another flash of hand clapping followed announcement of the first vote for Wm. J. Bryan. It came from Michigan. When the roll call was close to the halfway mark Palmer and McAdoo were running neck and neck for the lead with the former a score or so ahead. Both were far away from enough to nominate, however, when the chairman of the New Hampshire

The Cardinals broke their losing streak Friday when they blanked the Pirates 2 to 0. Now that the Ruggles have squared away again many fans believe they will not be headed until they reach the front. At least Manager Riekey and his players firmly believe this.

With the outlook good for fair weather, there seems to be nothing that could prevent other than large crowds gathering at Coney Island, Ky., Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 3, 4 and 5th, where a great sporting program has been arranged, consisting of harness racing and baseball, music and amusements of all kinds.

The Rosemount Stars will have no charge of the team which will turn off day Sunday but will journey to on N. & W. train No. 16 Monday morning for a combat with the diamond-wearers of that place on Independence Day. In the absence of Manager Fred Oberfeld, Business Manager Cunningham will be in the slot for the handovers with Weber wearing the big mitt.

Manager George McMahon of the Elks team has received an offer for a game with the Gallipolis Elks Monday. He will make the trip, providing enough players signify their willingness to go to Gallipolis. Those wishing to make the trip are requested to get in touch with Mr. McMahon.

Johnny Coulon is champion again. The veteran light scrapper came out of his ring retirement a few months past and sailed away to Europe to seek fame and fortune. He is back again with the title of flyweight champion of France by virtue of his two-round K. O. victory over Emile Jallard, the champ, in Paris a while ago. French boxing critics were profuse in their praise of Coulon's "master punch" which laid Jallard low.

allowing but five hits, three of which were of the scratchy order. He fanned seven men, secured three hits himself and scored two of his team's runs. This would indicate that Mr. Tarver, is some ball player and Manager Talmares, who is a victim of sickness, will, no doubt, recover without further medicine. Outside of the first inning, when a couple of errors gave the Shoemakers their runs and put them in the game for a short breathing spell, the throws were completely at sea and had absolutely no chance. But, thanks to the enthusiasm displayed by Manager Benny Row, that kept trying and that is a most commendable characteristic, to say the least.

Short Stop Sulth of the Railroaders had a busy day with the wilows, securing three solid smashes out of four trials. Lawdon Wells, who left last night for Kingston, W. Va., where he will play the rest of the season, got two out of three, while Frank Kerser helped himself to a 500 average. Solmner Grimm was the only member 3 score at the Industrial league grounds last evening before a large and ornate crowd. There was really nothing to it but the Railroaders, who were on the alert at various stages of the game, due to their well-known clubbing ability and hitting the off-ferings of Mike Mowery every now and then and generally when they imagined they needed a run. On the other hand, Mr. Tannen of Ft. Gay, W. Va., who did the mounding for the visitors, was a total expert to the Dreads. The dark-skinned athlete was ever in command of the situation and twisted a truly remarkable game.

religious disposition. He had in his service a negro man who had become so accustomed to the famous soldier's way that he was able to jerehell whenever the general was about to start on an expedition without receiving any advance notice to that effect. One day he was asked to explain how he could do this when his master never divulged his plans to anyone. The negro replied: "Well, I'll tell you, Marse Jackson alius prays ev' night 'n' er' mornin', but when he gets ready to go away he prays two or three or four times during the night. maintaining perhaps on what his folks at home would say concerning his rather ingenuous delusion as an industrial lionger. Mr. Tarenner went in and before the side had been repaired the Browns had scored three. Ross sacrificed and Cooper walked. Jackson tossed wide to second on Floyd Smith's roller, Doherty scored five. Heiser singled through first. Cooper coaling in. Smith scored on Lewis' roller to short which was tossed wide. Monk fled to first and Lewis popped to Jackson. Threatened the Browns were absolutely helpless for the hands of Tarenner, who dogged himself with much skill and confidence. He has some dazzling career and a fast ball that hops and flashes.

The Railroaders scored two in the second. Tarenner led off with a double to middle. Goodie followed. Tarenner scored on Smith's blow in middle. Wells walked and when it was penned between first and second Smith reared home.

In the fifth Wells led off with a double to left. He scored when Ross made a hard pop on Vaughten's roller in the sixth. N.

The Cleveland Indians are still clinging along in the lead in the American league free-for-all despite the Yankees with Babe Ruth and an all-star cast. Speaker is still looking for a good southern, but these two birds, aided by Caldwell, are
